

Measuring Value, Impact and ROI in Healthcare

The ability to connect the dots and show bottom-line accountability while maintaining quality and efficiencies will be the key to survival in the healthcare industry. To meet this challenge healthcare organizations need to be more efficient (cost), more effective (better patient outcomes) and provide better patient satisfaction, while serving more people. This is requiring investments in improvement initiatives and the Phillips ROI Methodology™ is the best process to implement to ensure those investments add value and prove that value to all stakeholders.

In today's healthcare organizations program sponsors and those who have responsibility for the success of projects are held more accountable than ever for the financial impact and ROI of their programs and projects. These programs and improvement initiatives include:

- Technology
- Quality
- Patient satisfaction
- Process improvement
- Innovation
- Staffing
- Compliance
- Physician leadership

ROI Institute Canada is a leading provider in measurement, evaluation and ROI – enabling Canadian healthcare organizations to prove the value, impact and ROI of all types of programs, projects and improvement initiatives.

The Phillips ROI Methodology™

The Phillips ROI Methodology is a step-by-step credible process that meets the need to show the value used by organizations all over the world. The methodology is a simple to use and proven process that will generate a balanced set of data that is believable, realistic and accurate – particularly from the perspective of sponsors and key stakeholders. To allocate funds to programs, projects and improvement initiatives that deliver the highest value you must have a method that credibly proves or shows the value.

Why Measure ROI?

It is evident that there is an increasing demand to show the financial impact of expenditures that invest in programs and improvement initiatives in healthcare organizations. There has always been a concern over the value of programs, projects and all organizational improvement efforts and now the definition of value includes financial impact. The expenditures used to be categorized as a "cost of doing business" – now they are an investment and demand a ROI.

The Phillips ROI Methodology™

The Phillips ROI Methodology generates a balanced set of data that are believable, realistic and accurate, from the viewpoint of key stakeholders. The methodology approaches credibility head-on through the use of:

- A balanced set of data
- A logical, systematic process
- Guiding Principles
- A method to isolate the benefits of a program
- A proven methodology based on thousands of applications
- Emphasis on implementing the methodology within an organization to ensure the process is sustained
